

BUS 101: Business Information Systems

An introduction to computers and the components of a business information system, including “hands-on” exposure to office productivity applications, and learning how information technology can be applied to satisfy business needs.

Credits: 3