

SOC 214: Introduction to Race & Ethnic Relations

This course examines the historical and current social constructions of race and ethnicity in shaping social relations in Hawai'i, the United States, and other countries. The primary focus of this course is to explore racial and ethnic experiences and inequalities by applying sociological theoretical perspectives.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites: Placement in ENG 100 or equivalent or Instructor approval